Scanner software will scan all local files and folders (the hard drive itself) and produce a full report for you. Without a good scanner, it would be impossible to complete a penetration test. You would need to manually search each file one by one. Scanner software will not just scan files; it will also keep track of the locations of files, the sizes and dates of files, and the attributes of files such as zip files and PDFs. What are the advantages of a scanner? You will be able to see in what folders the most of files are stored and what are the most frequented. It can be stored for later use. You can upload the scan report to a online cloud system and see at a glance what changes you need to make in your system (if any). In addition, you can keep track of file size... 10 by jfox2 by jfox2 It's simple: your computer could be infected by viruses, spyware or other malware; iPMS Portable Malware Scanner will scan all files on your hard drive, modify system settings and scan them again.
